

What is the Chapel Meeting House?

Thank you for your interest in the Camp St. Augustine Chapel. The Chapel Meeting House is an historic renovated chapel, located on 56 Mill Street in Foxboro, that belongs to the people of Foxboro. Any Town citizen, who is 21 years or older, may request its use for group or private functions.

What the facility offers

The most important thing offered by the Chapel Meeting House is its setting. Located on the corner of the Foxboro State Forest, this building is situated in a quiet pine forest area on the corner of the Cocasset River Recreation area.

The structure reflects a late 19th century style with a single large room, warm gold colored walls, hard pine floors, high ceilings, and is furnished with comfortable chairs and tables for functional use.

The main 46 'x 16' master room can accommodate a maximum of 65 people, and is suitable for parties, gatherings, reunions, or similar type functions. The Chapel Meeting House has a small side room that contains a handicap accessible toilet, and a small kitchenette/pantry area. This pantry has ample counterspace and full sized refrigerator. There is a very functional, propane fueled, heating/AC unit, that allows the building to be utilized throughout the entire year. Use of this building will be very suitable for groups who are looking for a quiet meeting place in a pine forest setting, in a wonderfully warm and friendly atmosphere.

IMPORTANT NOTES: (1) Due to Foxboro municipal policy, NO ALCOHOL is allowed at any function, at any time, in this building; (2) Any food may be brought in for a private function and is the responsibility of the user to insure its quality for their guests. However, due to Health Department requirements, the Chapel does not accommodate food preparation or heating with the exception of coffee/tea/cocoa; (3) Users are asked to clean up and take away any trash or left overs remaining after a function.
